Quote: "Happy is the home with at least one cat."- A cat lover.

Cats are unique creatures. You either like them or you don't. Cats will invariably choose to rub against and try to snuggle up to people who don't like cats. I think they do that just to be irritating. Cats do like to be in charge and most of us who exist in a household with cats know that the house does belong to the cat(s) and we are merely the servant. They can be quite demanding but they also provide a lot of love and comfort. A purring cat in your lap can sooth frayed nerves and help the world look better. You just have to remember that it is their house and you need to cater to their wants and needs.

Anyone who knows me, whether in person or otherwise, knows that I am a cat person. Cats have always been a part of my life. A cat, a colt and I were all born about the same time as the snows of the 1948-49 blizzards were still melting away. I

Bo and Luke watched and thought it quite funny
As Bones chased after
That darn little bunny

Round & around
Back and forth, to and fro
Then under the sofa
That bunny did go.

Bones hunkered down,
Caught a glimpse of a tail,
Said, "I'll catch that critter and I'm not going to fail!

The boys were disappointed
Bones let their prize go.
One prior adventure involved
Scattered black feathers & crow!

In explanation,
Bo and Luke are teenage cats and Bones is their human,
There's no doubt about that.

They keep him a'wonderin'
Just what they'll do next
Whatever the motive,
Bones gets to clean up the mess!
